Letter from the President

The last quarter of 2002 has seen a quick succession of religious festivals – Diwali, Ramadan, Hanukkah and Christmas. This concentration of auspicious events reminds us of the importance of commemoration and celebration in religions. It also underlines the fact that religion is an ‘embodied’ practice with strong implications for communal eating, drinking, relaxing and enjoying the company of families and friends. These embodied aspects of religion were also on my mind because I had recently enjoyed reading the little book by Hubert Dreyfus on The Internet. This philosophical discussion of the consequences for human beings of interacting with each other in cyberspace argues that the intelligence of computers must remain essentially different from human intelligence. One of the reasons given for this difference is the fact that computers do not have human bodies. They cannot, therefore, have an awareness of their situation in the world and cannot make judgements about context. This is why they are unable to distinguish between data and information. Again, it seems that embodiment is one of the keys to the human condition.

What is the moral of this story? Well, it makes me more than ever grateful to Karel Dobbelaere, our indefatigable General Secretary, and his team in Leuven for using their computers to organise a conference programme that is highly relevant to the major issues in the sociology of religion. I’m also grateful to the Local Committee, under Franco Garelli’s leadership, for ensuring that next July’s conference will be suitably embodied from the point of view of accommodation, food, drink and entertainment. In short, we can look forward to a conference that will combine the best of both worlds – computers in the service of embodied sociability.

As you’ll see, the Preliminary Programme contains a very large number of fascinating sessions and presentations of all kinds. Now is the time to make your plans for participating in what promises to be an outstandingly good ISSR conference.

I am also delighted to report a significant increase in membership of the ISSR this year and, thanks to the good work of our Treasurer, Jean-Pierre Hiernaux, an improvement in our financial situation. You can help to maintain the growth of the ISSR by paying your subscriptions on time and by ensuring that your library subscribes to Social Compass.

With all good wishes
Jim Beckford, President of the ISSR

A proposal sent by someone called Pastorell for the New Researchers Forum does not contain an abstract, a title or an address. It is possible that this information has been lost or accidentally deleted. The General Secretary asks anyone who knows Pastorell to request that she or he should send the proposal once more to: karel.dobbelaere@soc.kuleuven.ac.be as a matter of urgency.

27th ISSR/SISR Conference
RELIGION AND GENERATIONS
Turin (Italy) July 21 - 25, 2003

The PRELIMINARY PROGRAMME of the 27th Conference is sent to you:

To inform you about the programme; and to allow you to check whether:

- your proposal is integrated in the programme (it may be missing because of a problem with e-mail or an accidental deletion) and in the correct session(s)
- your proposal is correctly presented (typing errors etc. may have occurred)
- all required information is presented (you may have forgotten to provide a translation of the title of your paper in French; your institutional affiliation and/or your e-mail address may be lacking)

Please inform me of any additions that are needed before January 15th 2003 by sending an e-mail to: karel.dobbelaere@soc.kuleuven.ac.be specifying the number of the Thematic Session (TST nr.), the miscellaneous papers (MPL) or the New Researchers Forum (NRF) where your paper fits.

For information visit our Web Site

www.sisr.org

You will find there, among other things:

- in February the final programme of the 27th Conference
- a link to the Web Site of the Local Committee (www.sisr-turin2003.it) with all practical information about the conference: the city of Turin, hotel reservations, affordable lodgings, restaurants, and sightseeing programmes organised by the committee.
- the 'Who's Who' of the ISSR/SISR, with e-mail addresses, institutional affiliations, etc of our members

You can still propose a Free Paper or a paper for the New Researchers Forum:

send your abstract in an attachment
(200 words in English together with a summary of 50 words in French)
to: the General Secretary

karel.dobbelaere@soc.kuleuven.ac.be before January 15th 2003

Your text should be sent in RTF (Rich Text Format). We cannot retype them!!

How to name your attached file?

For Free Papers and New Researchers Forum papers: Your family name followed by FP or NRF.

Under the title of your abstract give:
your first (given) name and family name, your institutional affiliation, and e-mail address

Important notice: organisers of thematic sessions, and presenters of papers have to be members of the International Society for the Sociology of Religions (ISSR).

If you have not yet paid your dues, you should do so before December 31 2002. You will find the necessary documents in the last three pages of this Network.

"Generations of Sociologists of Religion: 'The class of 1973'" // «Des générations de sociologues: 'La classe de 1973'»

Jim BECKFORD

Scholars who participated in their first ISSR conference at The Hague in 1973 are invited to exchange their views about the transformations that they have observed in the ISSR and the sociology of religion since that time.

Les chercheurs qui, pour la première fois, ont participé à une Conférence de la SISR en 1973 à La Haye, sont invités à échanger leur vision concernant les transformations que depuis lors ils ont observées dans la SISR et plus largement dans le sociologie des religions.

Session 2 : Religious Resources for Citizenship; the Possibility of an EU funded project

John Fulton and Sylvie Collins (UK)
fultonj@smuc.ac.uk

The purpose of the session is to discuss whether any members and friends of SISR might be interested in pursuing research on Citizenship and Religion, on the understanding that this would only take place if a research bid to the European Union Research Fund/ Framework 6 Programme was successful. Framework 6 is making available 250 million euros for research into, among others, ‘relations between new forms of citizenship including rights of non-citizens; tolerance, human rights, racism and xenophobia’, and the ‘evolution of citizenship and identities in a context of cultural, and other diversities in Europe’. As religion is one of the single most important cultural resources in Europe, the possibility of financial assistance for social research relating religion to citizenship issues is high.

The European Union has allocated 250 million Euros for research on the topic ‘Citizens and Governance in a Knowledge Based Society’ (2002-2005). One of the two ‘research priorities’ under this heading is ‘Citizenship, Democracy and New Forms of Governance’. It includes researching ‘relations between new forms of citizenship including rights of non-citizens; tolerance, human rights, racism and xenophobia’, and the ‘evolution of citizenship and identities in a context of cultural, and other diversities in Europe’ (Framework 6 Consultation Document 2002).

The meeting will take the form of a presentation followed by a discussion forum on the possibilities of a multi-national research project, funded by the EU, and with qualified research teams in EU and other countries working to a well-structured programme of research. This could be supervised or co-supervised with SISR help. Religion is one of the most important factors impinging on relationships in multi-cultural societies, and yet only a limited amount of research, conferences and publications has been done linking issues of citizenship to those of religion.

Research in the following areas are suggested:

- The overall attitude or sets of attitudes that religious institutions and their members have towards society/ ‘the world’
- The religious resources (Scripture, traditions, moral codes, attitudes towards the world) that are available to specific religious institutions and religious movements for the development of citizenship
- Religion and racism, xenophobia, migration, tolerance and human rights
- The complex relationships between religious and ethnic identity
- Outsider perceptions of religious groups and institutions

The project would be based on both desk-work and fieldwork. It is hoped discussion will center on whether such a project is feasible, and whether colleagues wish to work towards a coherent submission for EU funding. The presentation will be by John Fulton.

A REMINDER:

Vacant positions in the Council of the SISR/ISSR

Call for candidates

Elections will be organised early in 2003 for the positions of the following geographic regions that become vacant, at the next conference:

Belgium
France
Japan
Central and Eastern Europe

The following positions are still vacant:

Netherlands
South Asia

According to Art. 20 of the statutes, the following rules should be followed to present candidates for your region:

- a) Vacancies shall be announced by the General Secretary in the bulletin of the Association at least six months before the elections. Candidates shall be members of the Association and shall be nominated in writing by two other members. The candidate shall signify his or her acceptance of nomination.
- b) The candidate and his or her sponsors shall belong to the geographic region for which the candidate is proposed.
- c) Nominations shall be submitted to the General Secretary who shall compile the list of candidates for election.
- d) Voting shall be by postal ballot and shall take place before the Conference which marks the end of the relevant period of office.

The terms of office of the following members of the council come to an end after having served for four years. According to art19 a) of the statutes they are re-eligible: “The members of the Council shall be elected for terms of four years. They shall be eligible for consecutive re-election once, excepting that those who are elected President, General Secretary or Treasurer shall be eligible for a total consecutive duration of membership of the Council of not more than three terms”.
